Golf is a sport played with clubs and a small, hard ball on a course consisting of a series of holes. The objective of the game is to complete each hole in as few strokes as possible, by hitting the ball into the hole with a series of shots using different types of clubs.

In golf, players take turns hitting the ball from a tee (a small raised platform) towards the hole, which is usually located some distance away. Players choose which club to use based on the distance they need to hit the ball, and they must also consider factors such as the terrain and any obstacles that may be in their way. Golf is a popular sport played around the world, and it is enjoyed by people of all ages.

Professional golf is played at a high level of competition, and the major championships (The Masters, The US Open, The Open Championship, and the PGA Championship) are the most prestigious events in the sport. Golf is known for its challenging courses and for the skill and strategy required to play the game well.
